Public Warned Council Stands Against Bypass

Only 3 Votes Seen
Certain For Key
'Consent' Action

Leaders of the Route 23 bypass plan, openly discouraged with their lack of progress through semi-hushed negotiations, issued a public demand Wednesday for City Council to "follow the wishes of the community."

The bristling announcement came as the re-routing proposal neared the latest in a series of showdowns. It was recently disclosed that an ordinance now before Council offers bypass followers their most promising chance since the controversy began.

Officials of the state highways department have said the measure giving the city's "consent" for the bypass—would receive "very favorable consideration" if it wins final approval in Circleville. Both sides in the controversy had apparently underestimated the ordinance previously, and it will be up for final reading when the lawmakers assemble next Tuesday night.

Efforts to line up support for Tuesday night's voting led Councilman Richard Penn to issue the public appeal. Penn, known bypass supporter, said:

"ONCE MORE, even with this wonderful opportunity close at hand, the cause of the bypass is threatened with defeat because most of the city's residents aren't aware of what's going on among the members of Council. At the present time, we can count on only three votes when Council meets Tuesday night, and that won't be enough to push through the ordinance that now looms so important."

"Usually in the past we have tried to handle this matter by reasoning with the individual members of Council, but rather than wait and explain why we were beaten again after Tuesday night's voting, we've decided to issue a warning in advance. We publicly call upon opposing members of Council to follow the wishes of the community."

"So-called heat can be applied to sabotage the most promising chance we've had to put through the bypass, then surely the people of Circleville who want the bypass should be able to apply some heat themselves. In any event, we don't have enough votes in sight to win Tuesday night, and this announcement is to let the public know it."

Neighbor Man Being Held In Rape-Slaying

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (AP)—A young neighbor whose wife is pregnant confessed to police last night that he killed pretty 15-year-old Marta Sibbons because she "threatened to tell" that he raped her.

The partly nude, near-frozen body of the girl was discovered Monday near a lonely lakeshore lover's lane.

State Police Sgt. Adrian McCarr identified 22-year-old George Capps, a veteran of the Korean fighting, as the confessed killer. McCarr said Capps lured Marta from her home, where she was finding her 6-year-old sister last Friday night, drove her in his car to nearby Curtis Lake, and there raped her.

Then the policeman said in disclosing the confession, Capps brutally beat the girl and shot her as she tried to run away after threatening to tell his wife Mabel, 21, who is expecting their first child. Capps was charged with murder and held without bail for a hearing Feb. 9.

Police said Capps actually joined in the search for Marta after her father reported her missing.

Capps, an employee of a Trenton, N. J., wire-manufacturing firm, lived across the street from the victim in this planned community of new homes, built on the edge of the Fairless works of the U. S. Steel Corp.

2 Games To Highlight Dedication Of High School's $445,000 Gym

Symbolizing the leadoff stage of a long-range school development program, the new $445,000 Circleville High School gymnasium will be dedicated Feb. 5 with special ceremonies and a twin-bill for basketball fans.

CHS teams will be hosts to the Washington Court House Blue Lions, a reserve floor game being scheduled to open the main activities at 6:30 p. m. and a varsity match set for the feature at 8 p. m. Dedication ceremonies will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Arrangements are being made to handle a crowd that is expected to overflow the new gym's seating room for 2,350 persons. Hours before the opening whistle blows for the reserve basketball game, hundreds of parents and other visitors will likely participate in an open house planned at the high school and Corwin grade school.

Tours through the school buildings and the new gym, which faces E. Mill St., a short distance from Court, will be offered to the public before and after the evening highlights. Visitors during the day will be able to watch classes in progress at the high school and Corwin grade school.

WORK ON the new gym was launched during the administration of Frank Fischer as superintendent of city schools. Fischer was succeeded last Summer by Superintendent George Hartman. Construction was financed through a bond issue approved by the voters in 1951.

The new structure provides locker and shower rooms for football teams in addition to basketball squads and physical education classes. All students in the upper five grades will be expected to participate in a physical education program centered on the new gym. Plans also include a large-scale intramural sports program for both boys and girls.

In addition to locker and shower-room facilities for home and visiting teams, the new building has a band auditorium and auxiliary quarters. The gym section proper features a new type hardwood floor, with two full-size courts and the main basketball floor.

Fans will be seated on roll-

New Charges Being Filed Against Thug

CINCINNATI (AP)—Charges began to pile up today against a defiant little gunman who, police say, admitted he held up a wine store here Monday night and then kidnapped two men and forced them to accompany him into Indiana.

Two state charges of kidnapping and one of armed robbery were filed against 21-year-old Glenn V. Smith, released only last week from Mansfield Reformatory.

Thomas Stueve, assistant U. S. district attorney, approved the filing of a federal kidnapping charge and that case is expected to be presented to a special U. S. District Court grand jury here Monday.

The 125-pound Smith who boasted that he was a "society hater" and that he had committed 40 or more holdups, was named as the man who obtained about $48 in the wine store holdup.

Police said he admitted having then forced Clyde Wathen, 27, a taxi driver, to haul him around dark streets. After hearing the cab company's radio efforts to locate the taxi, Smith forced Wathen to accompany him and re-commandeered a panel truck driven by Jesse Thornton.

He finally released his two prisoners near Napoleon, Ind., but was arrested a short time later as he was about to board a train in Greensburg, Ind.

away bleachers on the sides and temporary bleachers in the end balcony.

Following the reserve game, formal dedication ceremonies will be opened with the national anthem, played by the high school band under the direction of Truman Eberly. Superintendent Hartman will then introduce Carl Leist, chairman of the city board of education and master of ceremonies for the special program.

Leist in turn will introduce other members of the school board, outstanding leaders in the gym construction project, and those designated to supervise the high school's athletic facilities and physical education training. Special recognition is also listed for the new music department.

SELECTIONS BY the band will close the dedication period and clear the decks for the night's main basketball fray.

With physical education to be a required subject next year, classes will utilize the new gym throughout the school day, which ends at 3 p. m. Reflecting the popularity for seen for the new gym is a program of extra-curricular athletic activities also arranged for the hours when classes are not in session. Facilities have been reserved for almost all of the time available for each day of the week.

City's Health Board Votes For Merger

Circleville's city board of health lined up Tuesday in favor of merging the city's health department with that operated for Pickaway County.

The action came as a surprise in view of a wait-and-see policy expressed recently by city officials. Dr. Ray Carroll, chairman of the board, said Mrs. Robert Young will represent the board at Thursday night's meeting of the Pickaway Community Health Council. Mrs. Young has been instructed to vote in favor of the health department unification plan, he said.

A vote on whether the council should recommend the health merger will be the top business on hand when the county-wide organization meets in the First Methodist Church Thursday at 8 p. m. Officers of the council have issued an invitation for the public to attend the meeting, but made it clear only authorized delegates will be permitted to vote.

City Council has given no indication as to how it stands on unification. City Health Director Oscar Root said he wouldn't have a statement on the plan until after he has attended the Thursday meeting.

Other members of the city health board, in addition to Dr. Carroll and Mrs. Young, are Mrs. Charles Kirkpatrick and Dr. Henry Swope. Mayor Robert Hedges said some time ago he is anxious to find somebody to fill a vacancy on the board.

Dulles Urging Big 4 Parley To Skip Talk Now About Red China Conference

BERLIN (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles urged the Berlin conference today to skip over action on Russia's proposal for a meeting with Communist China and come to grips immediately with the problems of German unification and European security.

Dulles declared the Soviet demand for a five-power conference including the Peiping Government "is primarily a device to attempt to secure for that regime a position in the councils of the world which it has not earned or had accorded to it by the international community generally, including the United Nations."

"Certainly," he declared, "this four-power conference is not the place to decide that matter."

Molotov had submitted to the conference's second session yesterday a formal resolution calling for a five-power meeting in May or June. The United States had already rejected the whole concept. But it also had accepted, along with Britain and France, a Russian-sponsored agenda which put the five-power proposal as the first item of business today.

Western diplomats wondered whether the Soviet foreign minister would offer peace settlements in the Far East as a price for Red Chinese recognition.

Dulles, Britain's Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and French

Foreign Minister Georges Bidault all said they agreed to the Soviet order of business not because they were willing to meet with Red China but because they wanted to get the subject out of the way and buckle down to work on the problems of German unification and Austrian independence.

Dulles flatly rejected a five-power conference in his opening speech, saying the United States would not meet with the "Chinese Communist aggressors for the purpose of dealing generally with the peace of the world."

Molotov promptly countered with a formal resolution calling for such a meeting next May or June "to consider urgent measures to reduce tension in international relations."

On the surface the Russian gesture appeared futile. Its deeper meaning may be profound.

In pressing to the bitter end for an already rejected proposal, Molotov may be trying to strengthen Soviet ties with Communist China. He probably also wants to exploit differences in the Western attitudes towards Peiping, which Britain recognizes and the United States and France do not.

He may believe that rejection now will not stand up at some future date if he plugs his demands frequently and loudly enough.

The Western delegations say the pattern of Soviet strategy in the conference is becoming increasingly clear.

Apart from persistence in talking about world tensions generally, which lumps together European and Far Eastern problems, Molotov is believed to be using every device at his command to weaken the Western alliance and prevent its ultimate completion.

The initial high stake in this campaign is the proposed European Defense Community which would create a one-uniform European army of West German, French, Belgian, Italian, Dutch, Luxembourg manpower.

U. S., British and French leaders here look to this agency to bridge over the traditional French-German antagonism and permit controlled West German rearmament in a manner acceptable if not overly agreeable to the French.

West Germany and the Netherlands have ratified EDC; France and the other prospective members have not.

Judge Lamb Seeks Probate Job; Brink Takes Auditor Petitions

Municipal Judge Sterling Lamb disclosed here Wednesday he has taken out petitions to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Pickaway County probate judge.

Judge Lamb was elected to his present post on a non-partisan ticket last November, and Circleville's city court began operating Jan. 1. Probate Judge George D. Young has already announced he will not seek re-election.

City Council has set the annual salary for the municipal court judge at $4,000. Under amended law, the salary of probate judge will be raised next term—starting in February for six years—to $7,200.

Meanwhile, former Councilman-at-large Joe Brink had taken out petitions to seek the Democratic nomination to the office of Pickaway County auditor. Fred Tipton, who now holds that office, has indicated he will seek re-election on the Republican ticket.

Incompetent Drivers Face New Campaign

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Department of Highway Safety took steps today to tighten its campaign against incompetent drivers.

Director U. C. Felty said police and sheriff's departments are being asked to join in the drive to remove incompetent drivers from highways, roads and streets.

Here's what the department proposes to do:

In the past only state highway patrolmen have been citing motorists as incompetent drivers on special forms. These forms are submitted to the registrar of motor vehicles. Now the forms are to be furnished to police and sheriff's departments for their use.

Motorists cited as incompetent on the special forms may be ordered by the registrar to take a new driver's examination. Under present regulations the drivers can submit to the new examination immediately.

There is no provision to stop a driver cited as an incompetent from taking re-examinations day after day until he finally receives a new license, Felty said.

Proposed changes in the regulations covering re-examination of those cited call for a 30-day waiting period from the time the license is first revoked. The first revocation is made if the driver fails a test. The proposed changes also say a driver must wait a year for a third test if he fails the second time at the end of the 30-day waiting period.

Felty said a public hearing must be held before the changes can be placed into effect. He called for the hearing March 3 in the Bureau of Motor Vehicles office here.

Estranged Wife Slain By Mate

CLEVELAND (AP)—A veterinarian killed his wife and fatally wounded himself in a downtown drugstore yesterday just a few hours after she obtained a divorce.

Richard Cleeve, 49, pumped two pistol bullets into his wife, Florence, 39, before horrified onlookers, then shot himself in the temple.

Cleeve had followed her into the drug store after she obtained the uncontested divorce and was awarded custody of their two children, Virginia, 19, and Richard, 17.

Restaurants Ponder Price Of Coffee

NEW YORK (AP)—Fellow out in Kansas says he makes money in his restaurant selling coffee at a nickel a cup. Restaurateurs in big cities are pushing prices up to 15 cents a cup. How come?

The answer seems to lie in how many cups you get out of a pound, what kind of profit you want.

Paul Park of Liberal, Kan., says he's going to stand firm at a nickel a cup because he's making $90 a week on coffee in his restaurant at that price.

Another Kansan, Jim Lofland, has cut the price to 4 cents. He says that's his break-even point and that coffee "is just an accommodation anyway."

One large factory in the food field has its own formula for making coffee in restaurants.

"We recommend 2½ gallons of water to a pound of coffee," a spokesman for the firm said. "Allowing for water absorbed by the grounds, that's the equivalent of 41 seven-ounce cups or 51 five-ounce cups."

"We figure that with cream and sugar, labor and breakage, it should cost a restaurant about 3 cents a cup. So at a dime, it's making a good American profit."

A leading roaster fears cafes will start diluting coffee.

"Some of them get 70 cups to a pound now," this source said. "We'd rather see them serve a smaller cup than dilute it. The last impression a customer gets in a restaurant is made by the coffee he has."

Skeleton Mystery Details Awaited

Additional details concerning the disjointed human skeleton, discovered in a shallow grave near Circleville Tuesday, likely will not be forthcoming for several days.

This was the opinion Wednesday of Dr. Ray Carroll, Pickaway County coroner, who explained that length of time would be needed by Columbus technicians to reach definite conclusions as to the sex and age and other details concerning the victim.

Meantime, Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff clung to his original belief that he has a 20-year-old murder mystery on his hands.

President Says Early Inquiry Already Made

Eisenhower Also OKs
Dulles Stand, Explains
Political Philosophy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the Federal Trade Commission will make a full scale investigation of rising coffee prices.

The President told his news conference the commission launched a preliminary inquiry Jan. 13 and already has discovered enough to warrant a full investigation.

Such an inquiry, he added, is going to take place.

Retail prices for coffee have lately jumped above $1 a pound and wholesalers have predicted a further rise.

The trade commission's investigation will be aimed at determining whether any laws have been violated.

The President said the FTC would look specifically into charges that domestic trading in coffee had been limited to certain types. At his news conference, the President also:

1. DECLARED he is backing up the position of Secretary of State Dulles at the Berlin Big Four conference. That was in reply to a request for comment on Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's demand for a Big Five parley, including Red China, on world problems. Dulles rejects that idea.

2. Said his associates at the Capitol tell him they still are hopeful a compromise on the controversial Bricker treaty-power amendment can be worked out.

3. Discussed the distinction, as he sees it, between the policies of his administration and the "New Deal" of the preceding Democratic administrations.

He said his administration is (Continued on Page Two)

Dean Booked For Parley On Red Demands

WASHINGTON (AP)—Special Ambassador Arthur H. Dean is due to confer with State Department officials today on a Communist demand that he resume talks on a Korean peace conference.

The Communist demand was made in a letter to Dean received at the State Department yesterday. The department was expected to reply some time this week.

The Communists accused the United Nations of stalling peace talks and of putting out optimistic propaganda at the same time. The Reds insisted on reconvening the preliminary talks by next Monday, but they invited Dean to propose a date of his own.

The special ambassador walked out of the preliminary talks at Panmunjom Dec. 12 in protest against Communist accusations that the United States was guilty of perfidy and of conniving with President Syngman Rhee to release 27,000 anti-Communist Chinese and North Korean war prisoners last summer.

Dean said at the time he would not return until the charge was taken back. There have been suggestions that as a compromise, the Reds might agree to erase the charge from the record. So far, at least, they have given no indication of being ready to do this.

Dean was due late today from New York, where he practices law. He was to meet with Deputy Under Secretary of State Robert D. Murphy and other officials.

Axle Tax Running Half Of Estimates

COLUMBUS (AP)—Receipts from Ohio's new axle tax on trucks reached $2,581,684 yesterday, state treasurer Roger W. Tracy reports. That's about half the anticipated total for the first quarter. Tracy said some operators sent in their reports without payments. He also indicated outcome of a suit in U. S. District Court to ban collection of the tax would affect first quarter payments.

Receipts from the tax, effective last Oct. 1, were earmarked by the Legislature for highways.

Bricker Seen As Loser in Fuss With Ike

Controversial Treaty Amendment Squabble Believed Dying Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower appeared today to have the upper hand in his battle with Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) over a proposed change in treaty-making powers.

The controversy now centered in the Senate headed toward these possible outcomes:

1. Bricker could take the unlikely step of compromising or abandoning the heart of his proposed constitutional amendment which says that "a treaty shall become effective as internal law in the United States only through legislation which would be valid in the absence of treaty."

2. The Senate could substitute for that clause by majority vote, which GOP leaders claimed they could muster, a provision acceptable to the President or an entirely new draft.

3. If Bricker and his followers refused to accept this action, their alternative would be to vote against the revised version on passage. That evidently would mean the amendment would not muster the needed two-thirds majority. It would thus be dead, and present constitutional provisions would remain intact.

4. A majority of the Senate could postpone a showdown by voting to send the whole measure back to its Judiciary Committee for further study, as proposed by Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore).

Eisenhower has said he would support an amendment which says that no treaty or international agreement can contravene the Constitution. But he obviously would rather have no amendment at all than one he contends would hamper foreign relations.

Eisenhower has contended that Bricker's proposal, as written, would subject some treaties to approval by the 48 states.

The President was reported in authoritative quarters to have swung behind a new proposal that future treaties made "pursuant" to the Constitution would become the supreme law of the land. This proposal would open treaties and executive agreements to court review of whether they infringed on the traditional division of powers between the state and federal governments.

Handed this proposal by Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) yesterday, Bricker said he wanted time to study it further. Ferguson thinks there is some hope of acceptance.

GRAIN FUTURES

Man Rescued From Boxcar Questioned By Local Deputy

A 31-year-old Kenova, W. Va., man who was rescued from a locked Pennsylvania railroad boxcar, was being held in Pickaway County jail Wednesday for investigation. He had been trapped in the car since 8 p. m. Tuesday.

Melvin Thomas Chapman was taken in custody by Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, who was summoned to Woodland, south of Williamsport, by railroad detectives.

Radcliff explained the detectives heard Chapman pounding on the boxcar door, but were unwilling to open it without a county officer present.

Radcliff said Chapman told a somewhat confusing story of how he was "bumming" to Cincinnati from the east. He said, in part, that when he got into the car he pulled the door shut and it locked automatically.

Reuther Says Ike Breaking Campaign Promise To Labor

WASHINGTON (AP)—CIO President Walter Reuther said today President Eisenhower's recommendation for government-sponsored strike votes reflects "a deep-seated antilabor prejudice."

Reuther bitterly criticized most of Eisenhower's 14-point program for revising the Taft-Hartley labor relations law, stating on testimony prepared for a Senate Labor Committee hearing that the law "even worse than it is."

"This is not a middle-of-the-road approach to labor-management relations," he said. "It is essentially the approach of the National Assn. of Manufacturers, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and of the anti-union employers whom they represent."

Only yesterday, William B. Barton, the Chamber's general counsel, told the committee his organization has serious doubts about half the administration program.

However, the Chamber did offer qualified support for the strike-vote idea which Reuther attacked.

UNDER THIS proposal, the government would hold a secret poll to find out if workers want to strike against their employers in labor disputes. Secretary of Labor Mitchell said yesterday the administration feels such a vote should precede an actual walkout.

Reuther said this recommendation is based on a "misconception that unions act contrary to the will of their members."

He accused Eisenhower of failing to fulfill a campaign promise to recommend elimination of a part of the law.

EDITOR, THE HERALD:

It is refreshing to find an article like "Old Legend," which was printed in Saturday's issue, in a newspaper. It was a delightful contribution to the headlines that make our news of today. The headlines are true news, but so is the philosophy of "Old Legend." Thank you. Gertrude W. Robinson

Excise Tax Cut Seen By Martin

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R-Mass) said today he hopes Congress can act this year to cut all excise or sales taxes now above 10 per cent down to that level.

Congressional staff authorities have estimated such a move would reduce revenues about $942 million a year. But Martin said he believes increases in sales and employment under the spur of such a tax reduction would prevent actual revenue loss.

Kenyon Student's Hearing Delayed

MOUNT VERNON (AP)—Arraignment of a Kenyon College student accused of manslaughter may be delayed indefinitely, his attorney indicated today.

Candido Marquez Jr., 20, of Chicago, has been indicted in the fatal shooting of a Mount Vernon chemist in a tavern fight Dec. 4. He is at his Chicago home now under $5,000 bond. He underwent an operation Dec. 24 to drain the left lobe of a punctured lung. He was taken home a week ago to await tests for cessation of bleeding, necessary before he can receive coagulant serum.

Sneak Thief Helps His Own Victim

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A sneak thief escaped with a package from under a young woman's arm but instead of protesting, she said the thief did her a favor.

Her small dog had died in her town apartment. There was no yard there to bury him. She was en route to bury the dog at her mother's home in suburban Upper Darby. The body was in the package.

politically liberal in dealing with individuals and conservative in dealing with economic and monetary matters.

A major difference can be cited, he added, simply by taking a look at the budget which he said shows his administration is reducing spending and that his predecessors went further and further into debt.

4. Asserted that Rep. Condon (R-Calif) has every right to clear himself of charges of subversion. Condon last year was refused permission to view atomic tests because of information the Atomic Energy Commission said it had received about him. The congressman has denied that he is or ever has been a Communist or a sympathizer.

5. Declared a measure of humanity will be employed by the Army in handling the case of Cpl. Edward S. Dickinson, the American former prisoner of war who first chose to remain with the Communists and then elected to return home. The Army has started court martial proceedings against Dickinson on the ground that he had unlawful dealings with the enemy.

6. Tagged as an idea worth looking into a report, a suggestion that the administration adopt a method of giving something like honorable discharges to those who resign from the government without any suspicion that they might be security risks.

7. Declared with a trace of irritation that his new farm program, calling for a system of flexible price supports eventually, represents no basic change in his thinking. He added that he never promised during the presidential campaign to maintain price supports at a rigid 90 per cent of parity beyond the end of this year.

8. Said he probably will send Congress a special message dealing with his recommendations on foreign trade. Those recommendations will be based, he said, in part on a report by his special study commission and in part on an analysis of that study now being made by various government agencies.

9. Commenting on the proposal of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Norwalk, Conn., to send to the FBI the names of residents of that city deemed "Communist," said probably nothing can be done to stop such a program. But he added that there are libel and slander laws to take care of the situation if unwarranted accusations should be made.

Air Force Chieftain Denies Rumors About Spanish Bases

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Air Force Harold E. Talbott hurriedly revised yesterday a statement of U. S. intention to use bases in Spain during time of war to say it will be in line with agreements between the two nations.

"Who is going to stop us?" Talbott quickly asked when told reports are current that the agreement under which this country is starting to build several large airdromes in Spain does not provide for American use of the bases in wartime.

At another point he said: "There are certain agreements on the use of bases but when the balloon goes up, we are going to use them."

He made the remarks at a news conference also attended by Secretary of Defense Wilson and other air officials.

Shortly after the conference ended, Talbott's office sent to the Pentagon press room a typed statement in which the secretary said he wished to clarify his remark. He added:

"THE U. S. Air Force has every intention of living up to the agree-

Vain Efforts Made To Save Fire Victims

Pickaway and Ross County authorities teamed up via short-wave radio Tuesday night in a vain effort to save the lives of an expectant mother and her infant daughter from flames that destroyed their home near Chillicothe.

The victims were 20-year-old Mrs. Dolores Lykins, who was expecting the birth of a child within a few days, and her 14-month-old daughter.

They were in their home about nine miles west of Chillicothe at 9 p. m. when Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff in Circleville overheard on the sheriff's radio the frantic efforts of a Ross County deputy to contact his headquarters from the scene of the blaze.

"There must have been a 'dead' spot, so the Ross County officer gave me the message for help, and I relayed it from Circleville to Chillicothe," Radcliff explained.

THE WHOLE story of the tragedy, which was caused, authorities said, by a blast when Mrs. Lykins was starting a fire with kerosene, was told bit by bit on the sheriff's radio hookup.

The infant daughter was blown across the room by the impact of the explosion.

Another child, Linda, 3, suffered severe burns and was reported in poor condition in Chillicothe hospital.

Mrs. Lykins' husband, Robert, was at work at the time.

Jobless Claims Here Showing Seasonal Rise

Unemployment Compensation claims for Pickaway County recently have climbed close to 300 weekly, an increase of nearly 250 per week since last Fall.

A spokesman for the bureau here, however, emphasized a large part of the increase has been seasonal, and added no definite conclusions should be drawn from the comparative figures "for at least the next few weeks." He pointed out at least one big industrial firm in the area has been ordering routine layoffs recently in line with plans made more than a year ago.

Several other concerns in the Circleville area, he added, always lay off employees at this time of year. Likewise affecting the number of claims filed here have been layoffs—some of them seasonal—ordered by firms in Columbus and other nearby cities, he said.

Approximately 256 claims—new and continued—were filed with the local branch of the unemployment bureau last week, and the total recorded by the branch office Tuesday was expected to be "close to 300." The branch office is open here only on Tuesday of each week.

CLAIMS FILED for Pickaway County last September averaged about 50 weekly.

Meanwhile, it was announced the Circleville office for filing of claims is being moved this week to larger quarters in the Pickaway County District Library, in Memorial Hall on E. Main St.

The local office, which is operated one day a week by personnel from the bureau's Columbus office at 435 Cleveland Ave., will be open for business as usual at 9 a. m. next Tuesday in Circleville.

Your Income Tax—

Some Deductions Are Allowable

Editor's Note: Following is another in a series of articles on how to file your income tax, what you are to do and how you can save money.

WASHINGTON (AP)—You do not have to pay income tax on all the money you earn. The law provides deductions for expenses and exemptions of $600 each for most persons, including yourself, who live off your income. Together, they are a kind of nontaxed living allowance.

There are two kinds of deductions.

First, there are business expenses. You take most, but not always all of these out of your income to find your adjusted gross income. Second come personal deductions which you subtract from your adjusted gross income to find your net income. (Then you subtract your exemptions to find your net taxable income.)

There are three main kinds of business expense.

1. You may deduct all the "ordinary and necessary" expenses of any business you operate, or of your trade or profession. You report them on a special form called "Schedule C" which you can get from post office or bank. Then you summarize them on Page 2, Form 1040.

2. An employee may deduct cost of meals and lodgings when he is away from home on his employer's business, but not unless he stays overnight. He can also deduct business transport costs whether he stays overnight or not, although this does not usually include going to and from work.

There is a technical gimmick in putting such expenses on the tax form. You must add to your income what your employer repaid you for such expenses. Then you deduct the actual expenses whether more or less than what was repaid.

3. Other expenses like journals, magazines and business entertainment costs may be deducted to the extent that your employer pays them back to you. (If they are not paid back they may be deducted as personal expenses.)

The add and subtract rules apply here as with transport costs, with this difference: You may deduct from your income only the amount repaid to you, not more.

In addition, you can deduct expenses connected with property from which you get rent and capital losses up to $1,000, except that a loss in selling your home does not count. It is not deductible.

You can make all such deductions and still use short Form 1040. Then come the personal deductions.

On Page 3 of Form 1040 are listed six headings under which personal expenses can be itemized. You can ignore itemization and take the standard 10 per cent. But that is limited to $500 for married people who file separately and $1,000 for others or joint returns.

If your itemized personal expenses are larger than 10 per cent you can save money. This will add a few steps in figuring your tax. Here are the main authorized personal deductions: Most nonfederal taxes; fire storm and theft losses; what you give religious and charitable organizations; interest payments; medical bills above 5 per cent of your adjusted gross income up to specified limits given in the instructions (if you are over 65 you get all medical costs up to the dollar limits); group hospitalization premiums; alimony or separate maintenance ordered by a court; union dues. Expenses repaid by insurance are not deductible.

Trolleys Collide, 7 Persons Hurt

BALTIMORE (AP)—Seven persons were hospitalized and downtown traffic was tied in knots yesterday when two streetcars collided just outside City Hall during the afternoon rush hour.

Anthony Kramer, 32-year-old motorist who suffered chest injuries when the second car went through an open switch and struck his, was among the most seriously injured.

On the side of the car which went through the switch was a Baltimore Transit Co. promotion sign: "Forget Traffic! Take a Trolley."

Disabled Plane Misses Houses

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Two men died yesterday when a jet pilot guided his powerless plane into a grove of trees to avoid crashing into a residential suburb here, the Air Force reported.

The pilot, 2nd Lt. James Kennedy of Richmond, Va., and his radar observer, 2nd Lt. J. A. Reid, Peoria, Ill., both 22, were killed outright when the plane struck a tree and exploded.

Soviet Said Ahead In Missile Field

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP)—Lt. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle says, "It is extremely likely that the Soviets are ahead of us in the development of the long-range ballistic missile."

The famed Tokyo raider, now an oil company executive, told a Midland Chamber of Commerce meeting last night the fate of civilization may depend on perfection of guided missiles.

"As a result of their own intensive efforts, he said, 'together with what they took from the Germans during World War II led in this field, it is extremely likely that the Soviets are ahead of us in the development of the long-range ballistic missile.'"

Burglar Wanted Only To Be Fed

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Mrs. Harry Deciovič was having a peaceful slumber in her living quarters behind the cafe she operates.

An intruder barged in during the night, apparently with burglary motives.

The noise aroused Mrs. Deciovič, who found the culprit behind the counter.

He said he was hungry and would settle for some ham and eggs.

She served his breakfast and he departed with a "thank you" and no loot.

Mrs. Deciovič told sheriff's deputies that the man said he preferred food to money.

Your Election Laws ...

By Ted W. Brown
Secretary of State of Ohio
(One of a Series)

In the past, many of Ohio's voters in registration areas have been disfranchised because of their change of name.

This has happened when a person went into Common Pleas Court to have a name changed and, more often, when a woman changed her name through marriage. The law requires the Clerk of the Common Pleas Court, in the first instance, and the Probate Court, in the second instance, to notify the Board of Elections and requires the Board of Elections to cancel such person's registration.

In numerous instances, persons changing their name did not know about this legal requirement and were disagreeably surprised when they went to the polls at the next election to find that their registration card was not there.

The Secretary of State's office augmented by recommendations coming from various Boards of Elections, passed on to the Legislature a number of suggested changes in Ohio's election laws to relieve such situations.

Under the legislation adopted by the General Assembly, which went into effect Jan. 1, the Board of Elections is required to notify these persons whose registration cards are removed because of a change in name that such action is being taken. This will allow the voter to

Lowly Potato Given Plaudits

CINCINNATI (AP)—The potato deserves more respect than just that of a fat producer, A. E. Mercker, a research specialist, says.

"It actually contains a great number of nutrients," says Mercker, who is connected with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"It has potash, iron, and the very desirable amino-acids," he told the Potato Chip Institute at its annual convention yesterday. "We also must remember that it used to be an old remedy for scurvy."

There has been a general let-down in potato eating, although the potato chip and frozen varieties have increased considerably, Mercker said.

Sailor, 2 Kiddies Killed By Fumes

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A 32-year-old Navy chief petty officer and two of his children were found dead of asphyxiation last night when his wife returned home from a trip East, where she attended a funeral.

The dead: Howard F. Dow, Navy chief dental technician stationed at the San Diego Marine Corps Recruit Depot; his son Arthur, 3, and daughter Patricia, 4.

Police Sgt. M. T. Charles said all the windows had been tightly sealed in the oven-hot home and two gas heaters were burning.

School Explains Its 'Red' Flag

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A citizen bristled yesterday when he saw a red flag displayed at the Greenwood School—and no American flag. He started calling school officials.

Miss Lucile Sherman, principal, explained the U. S. flag was not up because of the bad weather. The small red flag, she added, warned children to enter the building immediately and not play outside until class time, because of the weather.

"We've used that storm signal 16 years," she said, "and this is the first time we've been accused of un-Americanism."

WALL STREET BULLISH

WALL STREET, once the giant of American finance and unerring forecaster of business conditions but now overshadowed by government operations, has an interesting and probably quite realistic point of view about the future. Experts on the Street say a turn will come this year and it will be for the better.

The Wall Street view is that the upturn may come quite early in the year, and by the last half of the year at the latest.

"This market (for corporation shares) is resting squarely on its bottom," is the prevailing opinion. "The federal government is encouraging business through tax concessions and other policies. When the factors are understood, the market will really get going."

If Wall Street generates a boom in stock quotations, its effects will be far-reaching. Wall Street observers are not in the habit of kidding themselves—their welfare depends upon an accurate appraisal of trends.

A Wall Street boom in quotations could go far when accompanied by the new policy of selling shares to investors on the partial payment plan. All a small investor need do is sign up, pony up a small down payment and then complete the transaction on long term credit like buying a house or automobile.

Should that plan catch on with millions of Americans, daily Wall Street transactions might get back into the multi-million share class, with the market boiling in a manner reminiscent of the delirious twenties.

SCIENCE AND TRAFFIC

IN AN EFFORT to reduce the appalling number of highway deaths a board of scientists has been called upon to analyze automobile traffic and to ascertain, if possible, what conditions are responsible for motoring accidents.

Known causes, supported by past studies, are speed, liquor, fatigue and what has been diagnosed as road hypnosis. But there are undoubtedly other causes. It will be the purpose of these scientists, operating under sponsorship of the U. S. Highway Research Board, to discover other factors.

As scientists usually do, they have come up with an assortment of big words which mean little to the man behind the wheel of an automobile. They do say, however, they have discovered a common fault—driving too far in a single day, and too fast because of an ambitious objective. The result is fatigue which, in turn, lessens the mental and bodily reactions of the driver. If an objective has been reached ahead of schedule, many drivers continue on, regardless of the fact they already are worn out.

Science can aid in solving the problem of automobile accidents. But the plain, unscientific facts are that speed, fatigue and liquor are the principal causes of traffic deaths. There are others, but they are minor in importance.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

WASHINGTON — A suspicious and skeptical attitude has supplanted the burst of enthusiasm and idealism which first greeted President Eisenhower's United Nations proposal for pooling of atomic resources with Russia for peacetime purposes.

The sober spirit of caution is especially prevalent among members of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy and the Armed Services' experts on the subject. They had their first chance to exchange viewpoints on the question at the recent launching of the Nautilus, the first atomic-powered submarine, in Groton, Conn. They found themselves in general agreement.

Neither group of critics will express public opposition, however, pending a possible world pool with Foreign Minister Molotov in Berlin. Even if the President's suggestion comes to nothing, the skeptics realize that his offer constitutes a definite psychological victory in the cold war.

PROGRESS—They also believe that an expected Russian rejection or stipulation of impossible terms will accelerate conversion of this force to industrial use in the United States. It still languishes in the realm of conversation. Recent word that Britain is making more rapid progress than the United States in this field has strengthened the demand for American development.

The British say that they expect to provide all their light, heat and power from atomic energy within 20 years, which will end their dependence on imported or expensively mined coal. It might also help to expand markets for British goods now served by American manufacturers.

Under the Eisenhower plan,

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

An effort is being made to give the impression that it is the object of the Eisenhower Administration to soak the American farmer. Nothing can be further from the truth. Such a policy would be disastrous, would produce an economic recession of important dimensions, and would be politically inept.

What, it seems to me, the Eisenhower Administration is trying to do is to integrate the farm policy into a general economic program designed to restore the American dollar to its proper value in purchasing power without damaging any element in the population.

To a Senator or Representative, up for election, the pressure of the moment is always the prevailing attitude of his constituency. And that prevailing opinion is often determined by the most aggressive of the various organizations interested in a particular field.

Sometimes a Senator or a Representative can be forced, by local conditions, to straddle an issue to avoid, if possible, a struggle with his various local interests, which may be numerous and conflicting even in a single Congressional district; other times, he has to straddle between his own conscience and the various pressure groups. No matter what the great minds may say about vast national interests, a Representative is constitutionally a local official, speaking for his constituency; a Senator represents his state.

The President is not faced, or need he be, by such pressures. If a President is of sufficient moral stature, he can go to the whole people, speaking to them by radio and television, and telling the whole story from the standpoint of the national interest. He can set forth a national, not a local program. He can elevate the morale of the nation.

This country is at the moment fortunate in its Secretary of Agriculture, Ezra Taft Benson, an unusually devout person, incapable by training and tradition to compromise a moral issue. His reorganization of the Department of Agriculture represents a moral rather than a political attitude. Such a department should function for the nation and not in the interests of a wasteful and narrow, entrenched bureaucracy.

On the question of price supports, the inevitable disagreement must exist among city consumers of farm products, large scale producers and marginal producers who are not likely to see the same problem in the same way. Ours is a country of diverse and special interests in conflict for an increasing share of the earned dollar.

A government department such as the Department of Agriculture, while recognizing the just rights of each separate group, can only be of service to the country when it adds to its specialized function a relationship to the total national economy. It cannot isolate itself. The President, if he does not debase his office, should add to this national purpose the long view of continuing national interest.

Inhalation of Foreign Bodies Demands Immediate Treatment

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

OUR respiratory systems were made for air, but not for the many foreign objects that many children and adults inhale. This foreign body inhalation is usually caused by breathing in forcibly while holding something in the mouth.

This may be a coin, a toy, a peanut, some particle of food or any other such object. It happens usually when a child attempts to cough, sneeze, or laugh, or even following a fall. When this material is inhaled into the respiratory system, the child begins to choke and cry, and thus may further increase the symptoms.

Danger of Choking

The first location a foreign body reaches is the larynx or voice box. When it reaches this spot of the respiratory tract, it causes severe episodes of coughing, and the child usually becomes so short of breath that he may almost suffocate. In many instances, the object is dislodged, and the person can then breathe adequately. If the object is not dislodged, the victim can suddenly choke to death.

May Cause Infection

The smaller objects will pass on into the tubes leading to the air sacs of the lung and may cause severe infection. Before attempting to remove the object the physician will try to locate it with an instrument known as a bronchoscope. Many of these objects will not show up on X-ray. For example, a very common substance that can get into the lung system of children is a peanut, and it is one of the many items that cannot be seen on X-ray.

If any child is suspected of having inhaled a foreign substance, he should be rushed to a physician immediately in order that it can be removed before it is too late to help.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mrs. T. V.: My son has never been immunized against lockjaw. When he sustained a severe cut about a week ago, the doctor gave him tetanus antitoxin. Can he now be immunized?

Answer: It is well for all children to be immunized against lockjaw or tetanus. However, if they have not been immunized, and they sustain a cut which might be contaminated with tetanus germs, they should receive tetanus antitoxin. Your son can now be given tetanus toxoid.

Irving Hoffman, the globe-trotter, thinks that the same sign in different languages reflects national characteristics most graphically. Take the signs in taxis, he says, as an example. In Paris, they warn: "Do not talk to the driver." In London it's "Please do not talk to the driver." In Frankfurt it's "Strictly Forbidden to talk to the driver." In Tel Aviv it's "Please don't answer the driver back."

When the city slicker's foreign racing car got stuck in the mud, and ran out of gas in the bargain, Ebenezer hitched his mule to it and after two hours' heaving and shoving under the broiling August sun, extricated the car and hauled it four miles to the nearest garage. When Eb returned, his wife remarked, "I hope you charged him good for all that work." "Two dollars," said Eb complacently. "Two dollars!" screamed his wife. "I swear, Pa, sometimes I wish you'd do the pullin' and let that mule handle the executive end of your business!"

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

IN THE dining room, Andrea lifted her shining morning face over the newsprint wall of the paper. "Hello!" she said cheerfully. "Did I snore?"

Dale shook her head and laughed. "You should sue Phil for slander."

"I had nightmares," Andrea scowled. "I dreamed that only you and Phil were in Carnegie Hall for my concert."

"What happened to Don and me?" Aggie asked mildly, lifting the coffee pot.

"How should I know? And every note bounced back at me like a hailstone from those empty balconies! I feel all battered and bruised."

"All those waffles before you went to bed," Agatha murmured in an I-told-you-so tone. "I warned you!"

"Darling, I've drooled over Sarah's waffles halfway around the world! Besides, I only ate six."

"The bogey of regaining those fifty dieted-off pounds was in Aggie's regretful, 'I don't know how you do it, and keep that twenty-inch waistline.'"

Andrea laughed and turned to Dale. "Can I drop you somewhere? I've rented a car."

"I'm going to Stephanie's," Dale said.

"The beauty factory?" Agatha explained to her niece. "Dale is going to take over Stephanie's books."

Andrea's eyes narrowed thoughtfully. "I shouldn't think it would be necessary for you to work. Or did Kelly squander his father's fortune?"

Dale said evenly, "People work for reasons other than money. You do."

"But columns of figures—ugh!"

"One man's poison," said Agatha, in a tone of gentle reproof.

"Unbelievable as it may seem to you, Andrea, I would go out of my mind doing double octaves by the hundred thousand."

"So would I on your piano," laughed Andrea. "It's disgracefully out of tune, Auntie." She picked up a leather portfolio bulging with music, kissed Aggie's cheek, and produced car keys on a ring. "Ready, Dale?"

The sun already portended a broiling day, glimmering on the solid phalanx of steel and chrome along Park Avenue. It made Dale's eyes ache, but Andrea wheeled her way expertly in the flow of traffic. "How," she asked Dale curiously, as they waited for a light to change, "did you happen to pick Stephanie's?"

"Aggie did."

"I'd rather work for a man," said Andrea positively. "Power goes to female heads."

"I tried working for a man," Dale said dryly.

Andrea gave her a cocked-brow glance, and changed gears. A car cut in, and she wrenched the wheel, honked her horn, and swore nastily in Spanish at a near-brush of fenders. A taxi driver grinned. Dale drew in her breath sharply, and after a moment, Andrea said, "You think that's close! You should drive a car in Mexico City! In self-defense, I learned a mouthful of Spanish profanity. Don't ask me to translate it!"

"I left my car at home," Dale said. "Grandy thought it wise."

"You quote him like a second Daniel, don't you? Even in this short time, I've noticed."

Dale looked surprised. "Do I?"

"Grandy thinks, Grandy says, Grandy feels," Andrea shrugged.

"Well, my theme used to be, 'Aggie says—until I decided to know myself, a la Plato.'"

Dale shrugged doubtful shoulders. "Who does, actually?"

"I do."

"You know what you're striving to make of yourself?"

"Isn't it the same thing?" Andrea drew off the Avenue onto a side street. "Here we are. Employees' entrance, right? Good luck, Dale."

She drove off, leaving Dale standing on the sidewalk. No, it was not the same thing, or she would not be going through this door, riding this little box of an elevator up to an office where thick ledgers of red and black figures awaited her. She would be, instead—But what did she want to make of herself? One of the wise-cracking career girls that Roz Russell portrayed in the movies? Another Rambova, with an annual floral offering on a grave?

She got off at the third floor, and had given her name to the receptionist before she realized that she did not know her employer's full name. Stephanie what?

The girl was nodding at her in a friendly fashion. "Stephanie's late this morning. Sit down, will you? She won't be long."

"Would you mind telling me her—Stephanie's—surname?"

"Martin, but call her Stephanie. Everyone does." She saw Dale's expression, and smiled. "It's just like Ma'am. Or, her smile became a grin. 'Mac, don't worry, you'll get used to it.'"

Dale had formed a mental image of a woman embodying all the much-advertised glamour of her famous salon; it was rather disconcerting, a quarter of an hour later, to learn from the receptionist's signal that the plain, thin woman in her middle fifties coming from the elevator was Stephanie.

Dale rose, introduced herself, and put her hand into the square, firm one outlined. Lipstick, following the natural line of her mouth, was Stephanie's only make-up. Her eyebrows had not been tweezed out and painted in, and her short gray hair looked as if she cut it herself.

"Sorry to have kept you waiting, Dale," she said, leading the way into her office. "How is Aggie?"

"Very well."

"I needn't have asked. She's the healthiest female I know, barring myself."

"It was kind of her to arrange this for me."

"Most people don't recognize Aggie's kindness," Stephanie said. "She hides it so well under that Bolshevik dictatorship of hers!"

Dale faltered. "But she didn't—"

"Hold a bludgeon over me?" Stephanie shook her head. "No, I didn't invent a job for you just to oblige an old friend. In fact, you're a god-send. I don't enjoy interviewing applicants from the Agency. They all expect me to look like Ava Gardner."

Dale felt herself flushing, and Stephanie smiled.

"I'm a dismal advertisement for my products! But after the half-century milestone, you can't paint youth back on. You can't cream it in with normal skin or girdle it in with rubber." Her smile was questioning. "Do you think I'm a hypocrite, selling wares I don't believe in for myself?"

So strong a word had not occurred to Dale, but—"It does seem paradoxical," she admitted.

Stephanie smiled indulgently. "There's a definite therapeutic value in a facial. And a new coiffure can be as curative in some malaises as the surgeon's knife—and infinitely less painful! What's wrong with selling glamour, if it gives a woman a brighter outlook on life, and renewed courage for all the humdrum problems?"

Respect kindled in Dale as she studied the woman on the other side of the desk. The facial lines sloped upward, grooving the contours with serenity. The mouth was not beautiful by usual standards, but it was shaped to the habit of tolerance and compassion. The eyes, intimate with sadness, were unshadowed by it. Dale thought. Here's a woman who knows where she was going, and got there. Maybe Andrea was right....

New Brooklyn Manager Says Bum Rookie Lineup Is Good

By WALTER ALSTON
OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — From the start, may I say that I am not in a good position to say much about the Brooklyn Dodgers for the simple reason that I am new to the major leagues.

About the only Dodger department I can discuss is the rookie department. As manager of Montreal and St. Paul I have had the opportunity to watch most of these boys develop. We have several fine young pitchers coming up from Montreal in Hamp Coleman, Tom Lasorda, Ken Lehman, Ed Roeb, Beck and Glenn Mickens.

Coleman and Lasorda showed considerable improvement toward the end of the season and throughout the playoff and Junior World Series. Coleman probably improved the most. He gets good velocity on his fast ball, his curve is sharp and he has improved considerably in controlling his pitches. Lasorda seems to have overcome his wildness. He is a little fellow. However, his courage and desire to win overcome his small stature.

Lehman started the season very well but was slowed down by a bad ankle. He showed good stuff again toward the close of the season. Roebuck was our hard luck pitcher but showed good stuff all year. Mickens joined us late in the season and pitched well in his games. However, he may need more seasoning. He is a fine prospect.

Don Hoak, a third baseman, and Charley Thompson, a catcher, were with me in Montreal and both did fine jobs. They were A-1 in team spirit and desire to win. Some say Hoak is a better defensive third baseman than Billy Cox. Others say that's hard to believe. I'll say this. If he fields in the majors as well as Cox, Brooklyn will have the two best third basemen in the National League.

From the St. Paul club we will have pitchers Moore, Negray, Besant and Darnell. I know these pitchers only from former spring training games, and by their records. Of course, Don Zimmer will join us from St. Paul and I know him from his spring training games. He looked very good last spring and I understand his head injury no longer troubles him. (Zimmer, a highly promising shortstop, was struck by a pitch last summer and suffered a fractured skull that sidelined him for the balance of the season.)

The return of Don Newcombe from the Army should be a help

Adams Township Forces Atlanta To Rally In 4th

A fighting Adams Township School quintet gave the Atlanta Red Raiders a real battle on the latter's home court Tuesday night, but dropped the tilt to Atlanta, 61-55.

After Wendell Hott, Dale Elliott, Jim LeValley and Briggs Crites teamed up for Atlanta to get a 16-8 first-frame lead, the Adams boys, led by Amburgy, Smith and McConnell, came roaring back to earn the short end of a 30-27 half-time score, and the long end of a 46-43 third-quarter count.

Forced to rally, Hott and his teammates turned on the steam in the fourth to take the match. Nevertheless, the Adams Township reserves trounced the Atlanta secondary 42-28.

Moore Given 2-1 Odds To Retain Title

Champion Unhappy On Eve Of Fight As Wife Causes Trouble

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A moody, tight-lipped Archie Moore, although heavily beset by marital troubles, is a 2-1 favorite to defend his light heavyweight championship successfully against jabbing Joey Maxim tonight in their 15-round outdoor fight in Miami Stadium.

Archie's wife Alde dealt the champ a legal blow that hurt him worse than anything the light-punching Maxim can throw when she filed a separate maintenance suit yesterday that tied up his purse and will keep him in Florida until a settlement is reached.

The action was particularly painful to Moore, 37, because it promises to be the richest payday of his 17-year career.

If predictions of a $100,000 gate hold up, his share will be in the neighborhood of $52,000. He is to receive 40 per cent and Maxim 20 per cent of the net pot, which will be sweetened by $50,000 in television and radio receipts.

Moore had been quiet and edgy even before his wife brought the legal action, possibly because of difficulty in making the 175-pound weight limit. During a strenuous two-week training program, he wore either heavy woollens or a plastic suit in the ring.

He had no weight trouble before. He scaled 172 1/2 pounds when he lifted the title from Maxim in St. Louis Dec. 17, 1952, and 173 1/2 when he defended it against Maxim in their return match in Ogden, Utah, last June 24.

Tonight's fight will be broadcast and telecast nationally by CBS starting at 10 p. m., EST.

Scattered showers were forecast, but nothing bad enough to postpone the show. In event of heavy rain, the fight will be postponed a week and the semifinal between middleweights Bobby Dykes, Miami, and Johnny Lombardo, Mt. Carmel, Pa., will be staged in the Coral Gables Coliseum as the TV fight of the night.

Maxim has looked sharp and confident in his training sessions here and some competent observers are picking him to outbox Moore and become the first ex-heavyweight champion to win back the title in the ring. Maxim says he'll weigh about 174 pounds.

These three joined a sizable list of former Michigan State assistants who now hold head coaching jobs at major colleges. These include Laverne (Kip) Taylor at Oregon State, Forrest Evashevski at Iowa, Al Kircher at Washington State and Lowell (Red) Dawson at Pittsburg.

Circleville Junior High Drops Tilt To Chillicothe 52-30

Circleville's Junior High School basketballers locked horns with Chillicothe West Fifth in Chillicothe Tuesday night and were beaten by deadly two-hand jump shots. The final score was 52-30.

Chillicothe's 16-year-olds, Mickey, who is 6-foot, 2 1/2, and Hatfield, who is 6 feet, 11 inches, proved too much for Circleville. Mickey totaled 19 points and Hatfield 13 for the winners.

Fred Garner, Bill Johnson and Fred Sines led Circleville's vain drive in the third and fourth quarters.

Deers Rack Up 95 Points In Scoring Spree

The County League-leading Williamsport Deers ran wild with buckets Tuesday night, rolling up a total of 95 points to blast the West Jefferson, Madison County, quintet. The final count was 95-42.

In winning the clash on the West Jefferson home grounds, the Deers pulled the plug from the start and wound up with more points for one game than they have had for a single contest so far this season.

The Picklesimer cousins, Jack and Bob, Jim Mowery and Marvin Rhoads, sparked the deadly Williamsport drive throughout.

However, the West Jefferson reserves beat the Deers' secondary 40-32 in the opening game.

Walnut Loses Two Players Via Foul Route, Drops Game

The Walnut Township basketballers lost two of their best players via the foul route in the fourth quarter Tuesday night, and bowed to the Berne Union, Fairfield County, five, 69 to 62.

Sparked by Norman McPherson, Jack McCain and Bill Six, the Walnut eagles led all the way up to the last frame when McPherson and Six left the game.

With a 21-14 first-frame lead, and a 40-29 half-time margin, the Walnut boys went on to a 55-45 third quarter advantage, and then fell down in the final chukker.

McPherson had 21 points for the game's high scorer, and McCain was next with 13.

Boyle Plays Corpse Standing Up In TV Debut; Nosed Out By Bust

NEW YORK (AP)—Have you been invited to be a television actor yet?

No? Well, don't give up hope. In video everybody is getting into the act. If they got around to me, they'll get around to you.

I made my first professional TV debut Sunday, and if I didn't immediately become a bright living legend in the theater it's not my fault. They switched roles on me. I was nosed out by a bronze bust of Hamlet.

The play was "King Richard II," written by William Shakespeare, or, as we in that enchanted world behind the footlights prefer to call him, "The Bard." It starred Maurice Evans and Sarah Churchill and was presented at a cost of $175,000—more cash than Shakespeare saw in his lifetime.

When I was first asked to join the cast, I was careful to inquire what part I would play.

"You play the corpse of King Richard II, the final death scene," the agent said. "You just lie there in a coffin with a mask over your face."

It did sound good. And playing a corpse with a mask over your face would bring out the Barrymore in any actor.

But when I went to the rehearsal I found the "lans had been changed."

"When Evans played Hamlet on television last year, the corpse fluttered his eyelids and the camera caught it," a director said.

I promised on my honor not to breathe for five minutes before the last scene until five minutes after it was over, but the director said:

"We can't take a chance. We've given the corpse role to a bronze bust of Maurice playing Hamlet. The bust has been made up with greasepaint and hair to look like King Richard, and we feel pretty sure it won't flutter its eyes."

When I asked where that left me, he said:

"Most actors start their careers as offstage noises. We'll start you as an onstage silence. You'll be a lord at the court. You don't say anything. Just stand there and look as sober as an old English lord."

I shared my debut with three other newcomers to the theater, two hounds named Nicholas and Lisa and a horse called Southern Comfort.

Lisa was so nervous she had a stomach upset just before her entrance. But then she straightened up like the game little trouper she is.

"Good luck, kids," I whispered. They trotted out and came back a few minutes later, wag-

Kentucky Set To Lose Stars

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky was ready today to bow to the rule that could wreck its national basketball championship dreams.

The rule, which outlaws graduate students in the NCAA playoffs, is expected to rob the nation's No. 1 team of its sterling one-two-three scoring punch of Cliff Hagan, Frank Ramsey and Lou Tsioropoulos.

Tsioropoulos has completed his bachelor's degree work, Hagan, an All-America center, and Ramsey expect to receive theirs before the NCAA eliminations.

The first watch was invented about 1500 by a jeweler in Nurnburg, Germany.

In the struggle between rigid and flexible price supports, only those farmers can benefit by rigid supports who do not care what happens to their own dollars, in purchasing power, so long as they receive government checks. The danger can be that in time the government checks could be worthless, as has happened in other countries.

When the value of the American dollar depreciated to 53 cents, a warning was given to all sectors of the population that a perilous inflationary movement was developing.

So far, the Eisenhower Administration has arrested the inflationary movement; it has not succeeded in restoring the value of the dollar, nor will it ever succeed until it can reduce government expenditures, one of which is the various subsidies which it pays out to maintain prices not only for farmers but for manufactured goods, shipping, etc.

The entire structure of such supports needs to be rationalized, supporting what cannot otherwise endure, lessening support, limiting or withdrawing support wherever possible. The flexible farm support program is not anti-farmer; it is beneficial to all Americans, including farmers who cannot prosper when products, like butter, are out-priced competitively.

It gives the government a range of operations in an inflationary period which actually benefits nobody. The problem needs to be viewed in broad terms if there is not to be a revolt by city folks against the high prices they pay for their food in addition to high taxes. And the city folks can have the votes if they get excited.

THE FIRST WATCH WAS INVENTED ABOUT 1500 BY A JEWELER IN NURNBURG, GERMANY.

Edstrom, Chamber Head, Backs Optimism On Trade For 1954

Recent Survey Conflicts With Many Reports

Nationwide Studies Gathered Views On All Levels

President Wes Edstrom of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce expressed confidence Wednesday that the nation's business this year will exceed the all-time peak registered for 1953.

Edstrom said he is aware such opinion conflicts sharply with that of many experts on economic trends, but added he is in full accord with a recent, optimistic report issued by the Chamber's national offices. According to the national chamber, up-to-date data shows a majority of America's top retail, wholesale and service industry executives have high hopes for the year already started.

Forty-six per cent of several hundred distribution executives in 38 States supplying the data expected increased sales this year, while 24 per cent plan on little or no change. Only 1 per cent anticipate a substantial decline in sales volume.

In contrast with the Chamber's forecast are the reports compiled by many specialists on trade outlook. They expect a business decline in 1954.

THE CHAMBER'S data is supplied in a report by the National Distribution Panel to the Chamber's Domestic Distribution Department. The panel includes executives in the retail, wholesale, advertising, market research and service industries, ranging from the nation's cross-road stores to the big hotel and department store chains.

This is a new procedure by the Chamber's Domestic Distribution department to measure trends and developments in the field of distribution ahead of normal statistical studies, which are often several months old, the Chamber claims, by the time they are published.

The Chamber's report showed wide agreement among wholesalers and retailers, however, that harder selling lies ahead. These executives are taking the initiative in the battle for more business.

Eighty-six per cent reported they are maintaining or increasing their selling, advertising and promotion budgets. Even those expecting slight sales declines are stepping up their outlays for sales promotion.

Another sign of the "rolled up sleeve" approach to 1954 conditions is that 71 per cent of the executives said the major problem of 1954 will be maintaining sales volume comparable to 1953. Cost control was designated by 50 per cent, indicating intensified competition and price pressures.

Keynote to the 1954 plans of the distribution industry is greater efficiency in order to lower costs and hold the price line. Half the executives reporting said they would be intensifying their efforts at the same location to raise sales volume by increased efficiency, heavy promotion and automatic merchandising.

Almost 60 per cent of the population of Russia is composed of farmers.

First Lady Opens 'Mothers March'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The First Lady came out of the White House last night and stood beneath the huge lighted lantern on the north portico to open the "Mothers March" of the 1954 March of Dimes.

A fund solicitor went up the White House steps and accepted a contribution from Mrs. Eisenhower and her mother, Mrs. John Sheldon Doud.

In many communities at specified times this week, a light on the porch or in the window will be an invitation to a "Marching Mother" to stop by for a contribution.

Murrays Decline To Seek Offices

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Gov. Johnston Murray said tonight that neither he nor his wife, Mrs. Willie Murray, would seek election to office this year.

"I may never be a candidate again," he said.

Murray's statement at a press conference ended speculation that he might be a Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate in opposition to incumbent Sen. Robert S. Kerr, and that Mrs. Murray might run for governor.

He is barred by the State Constitution from a second consecutive term in the office.

Kreber Slated To Head Guard

COLUMBUS (AP) — Maj. Gen. Leo M. Kreber of Columbus will return to his post as adjutant general of Ohio Feb. 15, Gov. Frank J. Lausche has announced.

Brig. Gen. Kenneth Cooper of Toledo will become his assistant, the post he held before Ohio's 37th division, Ohio National Guard, went into federal service in 1951.

Lausche indicated Adj. Gen. Albert E. Henderson of Willoughby and his assistant, Brig. Gen. Julius Stark of Wooster, will remain in the National Guard. Their former rank in the Guard was colonel.

Dayton Air Arm Slated For Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force probably will shift the Dayton office of the Armed Services Technical Information Agency to Washington about the middle of next year.

About 200 civilians, all under civil service, work in Dayton.

James L. Ferguson, a special assistant to the agency's director, Leslie E. Neville, said all would be invited to move to Washington.

The Washington transfer, Ferguson said, is in line with defense department policy of putting such an operation "under one roof" as a security and efficiency measure.

Mystery Woman Case Is Solved

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Patrolman Samuel Baty Jr. was sure there had been foul play when he found a woman's dress, hat and handbag on a beach.

Fellow police hurried to the spot and as they searched for the victim they were informed the clothes had adorned a snow woman which disappeared under the sun.

Lindbergh Urges Man Build Character For His Survival

NEW YORK (AP) — Charles A. Lindbergh says "a materialism which overemphasizes short-term survival detracts from the humanism essential to long-term survival."

"We must remember," he adds, "that it was not the outer grandeur of the Roman but the inner simplicity of the Christian that lived on through the ages."

Emerging from his semi-seclusion of recent years, Lindbergh last night addressed more than 2,000 members and guests of the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences at a dinner at the Astor Hotel.

The famed flier spoke not so much of scientific developments as of what science is doing to mankind.

He received the Daniel Guggenheim Award for 1953, for "pioneering achievements in flight and air navigation." The award was presented by industrialist Harry Guggenheim.

Lindbergh, in his philosophical discourse, declared: "To date, the results of science have been primarily materialistic. We have measured success by our products rather than by ourselves."

Lindbergh, who will be 52 next week, said in his talk that early enthusiasm over the discoveries of science and the conquest of the air "blinded us to natural laws which govern the conduct of men."

"In recent years, we in America have spent an alarming amount of thought and energy on war," he said.

"... Man has always had a tendency to complicate his life with technical knowledge and material devices. ... But survival has a time dimension which says that power consists of more than strength of arms."

"Short-term survival may depend on the knowledge of nuclear physicists and the performance of supersonic aircraft, but long-term survival depends alone on the character of man. ..."

"While we concentrate our attention on the tools of economics and war, we must not neglect the basic means of surviving, the basic reason for survival, man himself."

Carbon-Less Paper Put Out By Firm

DAYTON (AP) — The National Cash Register Co. has produced a new carbon-less paper called NCR which provides multiple copies.

The company said paper treated with colorless compounds produced a blue impression on as many as seven copies. The paper is treated with a chemical on the underside of the first sheet and a "clay-like material" on the top of the second.

An impression on the top sheet "causes an immediate chemical reaction which turns the clay-like material blue," the company said.

Kentucky Aims At Truck Revenue

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Democrat administration, seeking more money for highways, has introduced a bill in the House to make more truckers pay Kentucky's gasoline tax.

It would require out-of-state trucks, 18,000 pounds or over, to pay the state's seven-cent-a-gallon gas tax on fuel purchased elsewhere but consumed in this state. Also affected would be Kentucky truckers who bought gasoline in other states and used it here.

There are more than 600 varieties of fish in the water around Miami, Fla.

Coffee Buried In Own Grounds

CHICAGO (AP) — A sign posted in a Loop coffee shop reads:

"In memoriam
On January 25, after a lingering illness, the 10 cent cup 'o' coffee died."

"Interment will take place immediately in its own grounds."

The new price is 15 cents a cup.

School Boy Tries To Be On Time

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police picked up Daniel Vaske, 6, at 3:15 o'clock in the morning and asked him what he was doing out at such an hour.

"I'm waiting for school to open," he told the cops.

The boy said he was a first-grade pupil at the school nearby and had promised his father, William Vaske, that he would not be late this morning.

The police took him home, books and all.

Illness Stalls Star's Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — A virus infection has stymied actress Jane Wyman's effort to obtain a divorce decree from musician-composer Frederick M. Karger.

Miss Wyman was scheduled to appear in court yesterday for trial of her action, which alleged mental cruelty. Her attorney said she had suffered a relapse in her illness and that he would not ask the court to reset the case until she had fully recovered.

Man Is Insured For Loneliness

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — John Dalmatoff, who told police last Friday he turned in a false fire alarm because he wanted somebody to talk to, now is insured against loneliness for the next six months.

Municipal Judge James McDonnell sentenced him to the county jail for that long.

Cyclist Rescued

AKRON (AP) — A policeman rescued Perry Wingerter, 15, yesterday after he rode his bicycle out from frozen Nesmith Lake and broke through the ice 50 feet from shore. Patrolman William Sauer shoved a board to the boy and fished him out.
